Climate Smart Home Service Now Operating in Ipswich

The Bligh Government's fantastic ClimateSmart Home Service is now operating in Ipswich and locals are encouraged to sign up.

The ClimateSmart Home Service involves a qualified electrician conducting a brief home energy audit and installing a household energy monitor for a cost of just $50 to residents.

In addition, up to 15 compact fluorescent lightbulbs and a water efficient showerhead will be installed free of charge.

After the audit, a free customized energy and water savings plan is provided for every household.

For the $50 price tag, households receive services and goods worth hundreds of dollars.

Member for Ipswich Rachel Nolan said the ClimateSmart Home Service was great for households looking to cut down on their greenhouse gas emissions and their electricity and water bills.

Bookings can be made by calling 13 20 40 or visiting www.climatesmarthome.com
